

Technical FAQs

Question: Can media converter be implemented in a VLAN environment?

Question Type: Application

Solutions:

- Media Converter is used to interconnect different network media and transfer data from copper to fiber cable, and vice versa; it works transparently with respect to protocol. When a media converter connects to a device, it doesn't matter if the frame is tagged or not. Consequently, you can use a Henrich media converter in a VLAN environment without any problem.
- If you have additional questions, feel free to contact us by e-mail at dhe@henrich-inc.com.